THE PAST MADE PRESENT

Salvage is committed to bringing architectural and structural gems of the past into the present and the future. Extensive travel and networking ensures only the most amazing French Oak flooring, lighting, architectural antiques and aged wood are sourced.

Salvage works alongside architects, designers and builders who have a vision for their clients, and wish to achieve the very best that a design and project can produce. Whether it be a bespoke Recycled French Oak floor which once had its home in a distinguished building in Europe, or a 100 year old chandelier that was once housed in a cattleman's mansion in Argentina, Salvage can find that special piece of the project puzzle. The new French Oak flooring, 100% sourced and manufactured in Europe, can add un-paralleled style and immense value to the very best residential projects. The range of colours and textures is huge, so Salvage can cater to the home owner seeking something they can be proud of.

For something very unique, the Recycled Original Face Parquetry can become the masterpiece for any project, whether it be a Foyer or Front Entry feature, wine cellar floor, or feature wall for your den or bar, this 200 year old parquetry, as pictured here, looks incredible and can be finished to a client's personal specifications.
